Savings accounts benefit disproportionately from transparency. Interest used to feel theoretical. You knew it existed, but rarely saw it matter. Digital dashboards changed that. Monthly accruals are visible. Growth is trackable. High-yield products like cit bank high yield savings fit neatly into this environment. Their value proposition is simple, and digital visibility reinforces it. You see what you earn. You understand why. No guessing. That clarity encourages consistency, which is what savings actually need.
